Policies

As a responsible corporate citizen, we strive to ensure that human rights are upheld for our employees and all workers in our supply chain. We are committed to compliance with applicable laws and strive to ensure that the use of child labor, slave and forced labor, and human trafficking are absent from our supply chain through the following:

- Our Supplier Code of Conduct, first introduced in 2008, clearly establishes guidelines for the standard of ethical behavior expected from our suppliers. It states that suppliers may not use child, forced or involuntary labor. The Supplier Code of Conduct is available to the public on basco.com and to suppliers through our Briggs & Stratton Supplier Portal.
- Our purchasing Standard Conditions of Purchase, which are available on our Supplier Portal, state that: "These Conditions include compliance with all requirements described in the Briggs & Stratton Supplier Manual, the most recent version of which can be found at <http://www.thepowerportal.com> and which is incorporated by reference in these Conditions."

Due Diligence

We undertake due diligence when considering taking on new suppliers, and regularly review our existing suppliers. The due diligence and reviews include:

- Identifying, mitigating and monitoring potential risk areas in our supply chains
- Evaluating the modern slavery and human trafficking risks of new and existing suppliers
- Invoking sanctions against suppliers that fail to improve required performance or seriously violate our supplier code of conduct, including the termination of the business relationships

- Encourage the reporting of any wrongdoing through internal and external reporting procedures

Risk Assessment

We have an audit program which includes questions pertaining to social accountability matters in our quality systems site audit and third party social accountability site audits for targeted suppliers.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we provide training to relevant members of staff.
